SUMMARY 1 OF 2 · SWOT AND WHAT IT TELLS US TO DO

Saving brings owners in. Winning them cheaply and proving they repay is what makes it pay.

The problem: our savings product is easy to copy, and Bachatt and PhonePe already have it. Our idea: compete on how we win owners and on what we know about their money.

	HELPS US	HURTS US
INSIDE US	S Strengths S1 The habit already exists — 2 lakh+ daily cash agents in Maharashtra alone S3 We can see all the owner's money — a shop has about 9 QR codes; each QR lender sees one S5 A founder who has run lending — the one strength that is hard to copy	W Weaknesses W1 Saving earns us almost nothing — ₹30–75 a year per saver W2 It all hangs on the cost to win an owner — +₹180 at ₹250 to win; −₹70 at ₹500 W5 Same product, later and smaller — Bachatt: $16M raised, about 17 months ahead
AROUND US	O Opportunities O1 Most owners have no formal loan — only 41% have one (Mar 2026) O2 Online lenders are pulling back — Lendingkart's loan book −74% in FY26 O4 Nobody saves from daily sales yet — none found at Paytm, PhonePe, BharatPe or Pine Labs	T Threats T1 PhonePe can join the dots — 5 crore+ shops; Daily SIP from ₹10 T2 Bachatt is ahead on the same play — 3M users (its claim); loans up to ₹5 lakh T4 Savers stop and debits fail — 35.6% of small daily SIPs stopped within a year

SO WE DO THIS

1. Win owners in person
   Trade groups, wholesale markets, suppliers' staff. Pay agents only for owners still saving at month 3.

2. Save a slice of each day's sales

3. Sell lenders a better borrower
   A saving streak plus the whole bank account, with consent.

SUMMARY 2 OF 2 · THE COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE

The money is in daily contact plus lending. PhonePe is closest to it, and we start next to Bachatt.

PhonePe is almost in the corner.
It has the shops, a Daily SIP and loans repaid from daily sales. The one piece it lacks is saving from sales.

We start in Bachatt's spot.
Same product, about 17 months later, with $1M against its $16M.

The co-op shows the corner pays.
It holds savings and lends in cash, with no deposit insurance. That is the habit we replace.

Our route: first right, then up.
Win owners in person first. Then lend: sell lenders better borrowers, and later run our own loan book.

Positions are our judgement from the facts in appendix A4, where each group has a card with its numbers and sources.

Appendix

A1 The answer in five lines A2 SWOT, all 24 items A3 What the SWOT tells us to do A4 The competitive landscape A5 Watch list
A6 The evidence, item by item A7 Sources and method

Where Save91 stands: strengths, gaps and rivals

Saving is a good way in, but it is not a moat. Save91 wins only if it reaches owners more cheaply than Bachatt and PhonePe, and is first to prove that savers repay.

A1

The answer in five lines

S — Our best asset is a habit owners already have, kept in their own name. But only one of our five strengths is hard to copy: the founder's lending experience.

W — At launch we are Bachatt's product, about 17 months later. An owner is worth +₹180 over five years if winning one costs ₹250, and −₹70 at today's evidence of about ₹500.

O — 6 in 10 small businesses have no formal loan, and online lenders are pulling back. No digital player has yet shown that a savings record earns an owner a loan.

T — PhonePe has every piece but one, and 5 crore shops. Bachatt runs the same play with $16M and a head start.

So — Compete on how we win owners and on what we know about their money, not on the savings product. Prove the three numbers within 12 months, with a stop rule agreed now.

A2 SWOT, all 24 items

Each item has one number behind it. The tag says how much it really helps or hurts us. The evidence for each item is in A6.

S Strengths

S1 We ride a habit that already exists

2 lakh+ daily agents in Maharashtra alone, serving about 1 crore families

BACHATT HAS IT TOO

S2 The money is safe and stays in the owner's own name

27 lakh of 1.35 crore Sahara depositors repaid by Jul 2025

BACHATT HAS IT TOO

S3 We can see all of the owner's money, not one QR's slice

about 9 QR codes per merchant (FY25) OURS TO BUILD

S4 Nothing of ours is at risk at the start

₹0 transaction fee for distributors on BSE StAR MF

BACHATT HAS IT TOO

S5 A founder who has run a lending business

HARD TO COPY

Only S5 is hard to copy. Bachatt has S1, S2 and S4 too, and S3 is ours only once we build on it.

W Weaknesses

W1 Saving earns us almost nothing

₹30–75 a year per saver BUILT INTO THE MODEL

W2 Everything hangs on one number we have not measured

+₹180 at ₹250 to win; –₹70 at ₹500 FIXABLE IN THE PILOT

W3 Referring a loan earns a fraction of lending it

₹2,000–5,000 vs about ₹14,600 per ₹2 lakh loan

BUILT INTO THE MODEL

W4 We have no grip on repayment, and we cannot take cash

55–90% of AutoPay attempts failed at major banks (Aug 2025)

BUILT INTO THE MODEL

W5 We start late, small, and with the same product

$1M ask vs Bachatt's $16M; ₹100 vs ₹10 minimum

FIXABLE IN THE PILOT

W6 Growth eats cash before it pays

–₹131 per owner at month 12; payback month 21

BUILT INTO THE MODEL

W2 and W5 depend on how we run the pilot. The rest come with a savings-first model, and loans have to pay for them.

T Threats

T2 Bachatt is about 17 months ahead on the same play
$16M raised; 3M users (company claim)
ALREADY HAPPENING

T3 Lenders are getting stricter with small businesses
first-loss cover capped at 5% of loans
ALREADY HAPPENING

35.6% of small daily SIPs stopped within the year
ALREADY HAPPENING

T5 New rules can shrink what each product earns
15% cap on first-year health commission (draft)
COULD HAPPEN

T6 Owners already have fast credit elsewhere
up to 85% of gold value on loans under ₹2.5 lakh
ALREADY HAPPENING

Four are already happening. PhonePe (T1) is the one that could close the market.

A3 What the SWOT tells us to do

Four moves. Each one uses a strength or an opening to answer a weakness or a threat.

M1

Win on the channel, not on the product

THE PROBLEM

Our savings product is easy to copy: PhonePe starts at ₹10 a day and Bachatt already pays agents.

THE MOVE

Win owners where they already trust someone: trade associations, wholesale markets and suppliers' sales staff. Pay agents for owners still saving after 3 months, not for sign-ups.

HOW WE WILL KNOW

Cost per owner still saving at month 3 is ₹250 or less. Today's evidence is about ₹500.

Built from S1 W2 W5 T2

M2

Make saving fit uneven income: save a slice of the day's takings

THE PROBLEM

A fixed ₹100 a day fails on slow days. Daily debits fail often, and a third of small daily SIPs stop within a year.

THE MOVE

Let the daily amount follow the money coming in, for example 2% of yesterday's credits up to a cap. Nobody offers this yet. It needs bank data through a regulated partner, and a lawyer's check on varying amounts under the 24-hour notice rule.

HOW WE WILL KNOW

Share still saving at month 12, against a test group on a fixed ₹100.

Built from S3 04 W4 T4

M3

Sell lenders a better borrower, not a lead

THE PROBLEM

Referral fees are thin, lenders are pulling back, and partner loans are 80% of our revenue.

THE MOVE

Give each lender a borrower with a saving streak and, with consent, a year of whole-account cash flow. Ask for a higher fee for better loans. Offer first-loss cover, up to the 5% cap, only on loans we pick.

HOW WE WILL KNOW

Savers' approval rate, and the share 90+ days late, against each lender's normal book.

Built from S3 01 02 05 W3 T3

M4

Prove three numbers in 12 months, then decide on our own book

THE PROBLEM

The plan pays at ₹250 to win and 1 in 5 borrowing. At today's evidence it does not.

THE MOVE

Run the pilot on the three pass marks. Start the NBFC application only if losses look like 7.5% a year or less: it takes 8–14 months and ₹10 crore of capital.

HOW WE WILL KNOW

A stop rule to agree now: if a saver still costs over ₹500 to win and fewer than 1 in 10 borrow after 12 months, stop or change the model. At those numbers the model says each owner loses about ₹280.

Built from W2 W6 07 T5

A4 The competitive landscape

Every player ends at loans. They differ in how they reach the owner and who collects the repayment.

Today only the cash co-op joins daily contact, savings and lending, and PhonePe is closest to doing it digitally. At launch, our row looks almost the same as Bachatt's.

Payment apps that lend to shops

HIGH THREAT

PhonePe, Paytm, BharatPe, Google Pay

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

A free QR code and speaker at the counter

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Shop loans repaid from daily sales. PhonePe arranges them with 56 lenders; BharatPe also lends from its own NBFC

PhonePe arranged ₹4,507 cr of shop loans in FY25 and earned ₹328 cr on them. Paytm has 1.57 cr shops paying for a device (Jun 2026)

WHERE THEY BEAT US

They see every sale on their QR and take the instalment out of it. Huge reach and field staff.

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

Each sees one QR of about 9. Only about 1 in 4 registered PhonePe shops use it in a month. Savings is a side line: Paytm calls its fund and gold revenue 'negligible'.

HIGH THREAT

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

Daily auto-debit into debt funds from ₹100; paid agents (Bachatt Partner) sign up savers

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Fund commission, plus referral fees on loans up to ₹5 lakh from 7 lenders and on credit cards

$16M raised (Accel, Lightspeed, Info Edge). Claims 3M users. Has published no retention, loan or default figure

WHERE THEY BEAT US

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

Refers loans only, and has published none of the three numbers.

Consumer saving apps

MEDIUM THREAT

PhonePe Daily SIP, Jar, Gullak, Paytm Money

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

Daily saving from ₹10 (funds or digital gold) inside a consumer app

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Gold margin (Jar), fund commission, then insurance and loans

PhonePe Daily SIP: 5 lakh+ investors in 8 months, 77% from tier-2 and tier-3 towns. Jar: 35M registered users, ₹208 cr operating revenue in FY25 (its own definition)

WHERE THEY BEAT US

Cheaper to start (₹10), bigger brands, already on the owner's phone.

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

Built for young consumers, not for a shop's money needs: no business loans or shop cover around the saving.

Outlook Business (3 Aug 2026); Entrackr (Jar FY25) · 2026-08

The cash agent and the credit co-op

MEDIUM THREAT

Daily-deposit (pigmy) agents, credit co-op societies, chit funds, bank daily-deposit schemes

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

An agent comes to the counter every day and takes cash

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Lending margin on loans to members; the agent earns a commission

Maharashtra alone: 2 lakh+ daily agents serving about 1 crore families; about 2 lakh credit co-ops nationally

WHERE THEY BEAT US

Cash, face to face, and a loan from the same society. This is the habit we must replace.

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

Low interest, a penalty for taking money out early, and no deposit insurance. Sahara repaid 27 lakh of 1.35 crore depositors by Jul 2025.

Indian Cooperative (2025–26) · 2025-26

Online business lenders

LOW THREAT

Lendingkart, FlexiLoans, NeoGrowth, Indifi

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

Online ads and loan agents (DSAs)

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Interest on their own loan book

Lendingkart's loan book fell 74% and revenue 62% to ₹327 cr in FY26; NeoGrowth's book fell about 21%

WHERE THEY BEAT US

They lend from their own money and set their own terms.

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

They are retreating after bad loans rose, and have no daily contact with the owner. They could become our lenders.

StartupFeed (5 Oct 2026) · 2026-10

Gold-loan lenders

MEDIUM THREAT

Muthoot, Manappuram, banks, Rupeek

HOW THEY REACH OWNERS

Branches in every market; no income proof needed

HOW THEY MAKE MONEY

Interest on loans secured by gold

₹19.4 lakh crore gold-loan book (Mar 2026), up from ₹6.3 lakh crore in 2023; average loan ₹1.96 lakh

WHERE THEY BEAT US

Fast, cheap, secured and familiar.

WHERE WE BEAT THEM

They need gold and a branch visit, and do nothing for saving. Better as a partner product than a rival.

A6 The evidence, item by item

▼ Strengths: the evidence, item by item

S1 We ride a habit that already exists

Owners already hand cash to an agent every day. We move that habit to an app; we do not have to create it.

Indian Cooperative, as used in your deck (A8) · 2025-26

S2 The money is safe and stays in the owner's own name

A regulated fund, held in the owner's name, that they can take out any day. A credit society can fail: Sahara's four societies had repaid 27 lakh of their 1.35 crore depositors by Jul 2025.

Angel One on Sahara refunds (Jul 2025); SEBI mutual fund master circular (Mar 2026) · 2025-07

S3 We can see all of the owner's money, not one QR's slice

A shop holds about 9 QR codes, so each QR lender sees one slice. All of it lands in the owner's own bank account. With the owner's consent, a lender can read every inflow through the Account Aggregator system. Reading it needs a regulated lender partner, so this is an edge only once we build our credit checks on it.

PIB (Dec 2025), as used in your deck (A25); Sahamati (Sep 2026) · 2025-12

S4 Nothing of ours is at risk at the start

Partner lenders book the loans and the fund house holds the money, so the pilot needs no lending licence and no loan book. Daily fund saving on the exchange has no per-debit fee for us, because the fund house pays it.

W1 Saving earns us almost nothing

The fund pays us 0.2–0.5% of the balance a year. Over five years savings is ₹31 of the ₹542 an owner brings in. Every other product has to pay for the saver.

W2 Everything hangs on one number we have not measured

If winning an owner costs ₹250, each is worth +₹180 over five years. At today's evidence of about ₹500, the same owner is worth –₹70. Both assume 1 in 5 borrow each year.

Your model (tables/redesign_grid.csv) · 2026-10

W3 Referring a loan earns a fraction of lending it

On a ₹2 lakh loan we would earn ₹2,000–5,000, once. PhonePe earned about ₹14,600 on the same amount, because it also collects. Partner loans are about 80% of our revenue, so lenders' appetite decides our income.

GroMo agent payouts (Aug 2026); Business Today on PhonePe (Mar 2026) · 2026-08

W4 We have no grip on repayment, and we cannot take cash
